Cover

This bunch of sun ripened, delicious-looking grapes subtly conveys the message of good cheer for the new year, just round the corner. Traditionally grapes are associated with all the good things in life, maybe in a little indulgent sort of way.

Whether the grapes are sweet or sour depends on your outlook on life. Actually grapes, like some other fruit, are valuable and versatile – eat them, dry them for raisins, make preserves or make red or white wine. The better the climate and care, better the grapes. The better the grapes, better the wine. The better the wine, better the celebration.

Of course, too much of anything is bad and over indulgence invites “the wrath of grapes.”

Cheers!

The Thermax Treat

Whether it is a colonial bungalow amidst a rose garden at Ooty, or a view of the jetty at Dona Paula in Goa, or the misty hills in Mahableshwar – the six Thermax holiday homes are really a home away from home. Started by the management in 1980 for employees to enjoy a holiday, without spending too much, these places are in great demand with a wait list. Last year, about 600 employees made their getaway with their families. Some evocative pictures from their family albums.

Thermax Does It.

Some recent projects from Thermax that are breaking new ground in energy and environment solutions : an electrostatic precipitator that will handle particulate emission at a coal fired captive power plant in Maharashtra (above) ; a boiler to generate steam and power from distillery spent wash in Karnataka (bottom left) ; and an integrated energy system based on gas turbine exhaust for a large petroleum refinery in western India (below) .
